

ABSTRACT

A process for preparing an electronic package comprising: (a) providing a ceramic housing defining an internal cavity for receiving a micro device and having one or more interface portions; (b) treating the housing to form a tungsten layer on the interface portions; and (c) overlaying a palladium layer on the tungsten layer.